Dear Alan,

We have noted that just 2 days after the Open Forum weekend where the prominent topic for discussion; the preservation of the Undercroft skate space – as explored by well over 60% of your invited guests – the Southbank Centre has taken the astounding action of displaying large banners pushing the message of relocation.

Did you listen to nothing at the event you held?

The banners state your intention to 're-open' a skate spot. You of course cannot reopen something that was never opened in the first place to be closed to then be re-opened. Ironically you follow this with 'get the facts'.

This is hugely misleading and misinforming to the public.

We request you remove these banners with immediate effect and also any published statement in print or online stating the 're-opening' of a skate area.

Regards,
